ASSESSMENT OF HOUSEHOLD INCOME

Overview

Your household income is determined based on either:

- Gross monthly household income (HHI), which is the default computation method, or
- Per Capita Income (PCI)

HHI	Combined average gross monthly income of both parents (or the applicant only, for single-parent household)

PCI	Total average gross monthly household income of all family members in the household
-----	---

Number of family members in the household

Household Means Eligibility System (HOMES)

All preschool subsidy applications are means-tested through HOMES. HOMES will verify your household composition and determine your HHI and PCI (if applicable).

About HHI computation

Note: For married couples, the parents and child are considered as a family nucleus by default. If your household income is determined based on gross monthly household income (HHI), both parents' income will be considered in the total income computation, even if the parents' registered addresses differ.

About PCI Computation

PCI computation is applicable for households with at least 5 family members who are related by blood, marriage, and/or legal adoption, and who share the same registered residential address.

All family members (including dependants and non-dependants) residing at the same registered address as the main applicant must be included in the PCI computation. This includes other family members sharing the same registered residential address as the main applicant.

As PCI computation only covers family members sharing the same residential address, family members living at a different residential address — including the spouse — will be excluded from the PCI computation.

How gross monthly income is determined

Your gross monthly income will be determined via HOMES as part of the means-test.

Please note that household or personal expenses are not considered in the assessment of subsidy eligibility.

The amount of subsidies reflected is an estimate. The actual subsidy amount will be determined based on verified details, such as screened income.

Note:

- The approved preschool subsidies are valid until the next fixed point of subsidy assessment or until your child withdraws from the preschool, whichever comes first. Learn more about the fixed points of subsidy assessment.
- Your child must attend preschool for at least one day in the month to be eligible for the subsidies in that month.
- The subsidies will be paid directly to the preschool, and you are only required to pay the infant or childcare fees nett of subsidies.
