Introduction

CareShield Life is a long-term care insurance scheme launched on 1 October 2020 by Ministry of Health (MOH). It provides basic financial protection should you become severely disabled, especially during old age, and need care for a prolonged period of time.

The monthly payout can be used for care needs, such as hiring a helper, paying for care services, or daily expenses.

How to qualify

There are a few criteria your loved one will need to meet to qualify for CareShield Life claims.

Criteria	Description
Care recipient's coverage	He/ she must be an CareShield Life policyholder. To check, log in to cpf.gov.sg via Singpass
Care recipient's needs	He/ she must: - Require full assistance with at least three of the six activities of daily living. The six activities are: - Undergo severe disability assessment. If he/ she is not staying in a nursing home - The assessment must be done by an MOH-accredited severe disability assessor. Find out how to book an appointment to do the assessment. - You will need to pay the assessment fee first. It will be reimbursed if he/ she is assessed to be severely disabled. Read about the cost here.

If he/ she is a nursing home resident

- You can ask the nursing home to help submit a Resident's Assessment Form (RAF) instead.

If he/ she lacks mental capacity

- Find out more about applying on behalf of someone who lacks capacity.

How the scheme works

If you are a CareShield Life policyholder, and if you become severely disabled, you can claim from CareShield Life. Payouts start at $600 cash per month in 2020, which increases annually until age 67 or when a successful claim is made, whichever is earlier. The payouts will last for as long as you remain severely disabled, and meet the eligibility criteria for claims. (Find out more on the CareShield Life page on the CPF website.)

After you submit your application, we may take up to four weeks to process it. You will be informed about the outcome in writing via mail.

Once approved, payouts will be made to the nominated bank account in the following month. This may include payouts from the month the application was submitted. The payouts will be reflected as "CareShield Life" in your bank statement.

In the event of any conflict, inconsistency or domestic dispute regarding the nominated bank account, the payouts may be suspended or ceased.

If you have submitted a new application to apply for new schemes or update your existing schemes with AIC, we may update your nominated bank account to the latest bank account details provided in your submission.

How to apply

There are several ways you can apply for CareShield Life claims.

1. Apply online using Singpass (recommended)

This is done via AIC's e-Services for Financing Schemes \(eFASS\). We recommend this method as the approval waiting time is shorter.

Read the terms and conditions before you start.

Please read here if you are applying for the grant on behalf of someone who lacks mental capacity.

2. Seek assistance from the nursing home your loved one is staying in

If you are applying for CareShield Life to help you offset the cost of the nursing home fees, you can ask the service provider to help. You can nominate the payout to be made directly to the nursing home.

3. Apply via hard copy

Email apply@aic.sg to obtain a copy of the application form or visit any AIC Link.

We seek your understanding that hardcopy applications take a longer time to process.

FAQs

1. What's the criteria for joining CareShield Life?

From 1 October 2020, all Singapore Citizens or PRs, born in 1980 or later, will be automatically covered under CareShield Life from 1 October 2020, or when they turn 30, whichever is later.

From December 2021, Singapore Citizens or PRs born between 1970 and 1979 (both inclusive), who are covered under ElderShield and not severely disabled, will be auto-enrolled onto CareShield Life.

If you are a Singapore Citizen or PR born in 1979 or earlier and do not have pre-existing disabilities, you can choose to join CareShield Life.

Find out more on the CareShield Life page on the CPF website.

2. How do I know if my loved one meets the severe disability criteria?

He/ she will need to see an MOH-accredited severe disability assessor who will determine their disability level.

If he/ she is found to have mild or moderate disability instead, there are other financial assistance schemes that you can turn to for help, like the Home

Caregiving Grant or MDW Levy Concession. Please find out more about the other financial assistance schemes here.

3. Tell me more about the cost of the disability assessment

For CareShield Life claims, the assessment fee for the first disability assessment will be waived. It does not matter whether your loved one is assessed to be severely disabled, or whether the claim is successful.

If this is not your loved one's first time being assessed for CareShield Life claims, the assessor will collect an assessment fee from you. The cost of the assessment ranges from $100 (if you visit the assessor's clinic) to $250 (if the assessor does a home visit).

You will need to pay the assessment fee first to the assessor. The amount will be reimbursed if your loved one is assessed to be severely disabled.

The assessment must be done by a MOH-accredited severe disability assessor.

4. How can I arrange for my loved one to undergo the severe disability assessment?

You will need to contact an MOH-accredited severe disability assessor to book an appointment and bring along any relevant supporting documents (eg medical records).

5. Can I see my own doctor or therapist to assess if my loved one can qualify for CareShield Life claims?

Your regular doctor or therapist may not have approved by MOH to carry out the SDA. That is why you need to be assessed by an MOH-accredited severe disability assessor.

Please check if your doctor or therapist is on the approved list of assessors. If they are not, please make an appointment with another assessor from the list.

6. What do I need to know if I am applying on behalf of my loved one who lacks mental capacity?

You can apply on behalf of your loved one as long as:

- You are the appointed Donee (appointed under the Lasting Power of Attorney) or Deputy (appointed under the Mental Capacity Act) authorised to make decisions on his/ her property and affairs.
- If your loved one does not have a Donee or Deputy, you can apply on his/ her behalf if you are an immediate family member (parent, spouse or child). Otherwise, you can only apply on his/ her behalf if the immediate family members are unable to do this (eg deceased, lack mental capacity or other issues). For successful applications without a donee/deputy, the caregiver or another family member has 12 months to obtain a court order appointing him/her as a deputy, failing which the payouts will be suspended. Do visit the Singapore Courts website to find out how to apply for a deputyship.
- You may need the following documents:
 - Recent medical report stating that he/ she lacks mental capacity
OR
Doctor's certification that he/ she lacks mental capacity
 - If the care recipient is also going for a disability assessment, you must ask if the doctor can do a mental capacity assessment \(using this form\) at the same time.
 - The doctor's certification is valid for six months, unless stated as permanent.
 - OR
Court order of deputy appointment
 - Copy of bank book or statement if the bank account nominated to receive the grant belongs to a deputy or trustee.

7. Would a loved one with dementia or other cognitive challenges (eg difficulties in remembering things or making decisions) automatically qualify for CareShield Life claims?

No, as such conditions affect people's ability to carry out the six activities of daily living at different levels.

In order to qualify for a CareShield Life claim, your loved one still needs to undergo a disability assessment by an MOH-accredited severe disability assessor. The assessor will consider the impact of your loved one's cognitive challenges as part of the assessment.

8. Is there a periodic re-assessment? How often would it be? Can this be waived?

This may sometimes be required to confirm if your loved one still meets the qualifying criteria. You will be informed by mail if this is needed. The re-assessment fees are waived regardless of the outcome.

If your loved one has been assessed as permanently severely disabled, he/ she will not need future re-assessments, unless new information suggests that his/ her condition has improved.

9. How are the CareShield Life payouts determined?

Your potential payouts start at $600 per month in 2020 and increase annually until aged 67, or when a successful claim is made, whichever is earlier.

This means that if you are aged 66 or younger, your fixed monthly payout is based on the calendar year from which you were eligible for payouts, and not the calendar year of your claims application. For example, an individual who had met the eligibility criteria in 2020 but only submitted their claim in 2021 would have their fixed monthly payout quantum set at the payout amount for 2020 (not 2021).

Find out more on the CareShield Life page on the CPF website.

10. If the CareShield Life payout stopped because my loved one got better, can we claim for CareShield Life again if he/ she becomes severely disabled later?

Yes, you can reapply and receive CareShield Life payouts again if your loved one is assessed to meet all the eligibility criteria.

11. We are currently supported by CareShield Life. How can we change details of the care recipient, bank account/ payee or opt out of the scheme?

To change scheme details

Log in with Singpass on eFASS. Go to “Manage My Schemes” > “Change in Scheme Details.”

If you are updating the details for someone who lacks mental capacity for the first time, please read here.

To change the payee to a nursing home that the care recipient is living at

If you are using CareShield Life to offset the cost of the nursing home fees, you can ask for the payout to be made directly to the nursing home.

For this change in payee, please approach the nursing home your loved one is residing at to help you submit the “Change in Application Details” Form to AIC.

Do keep a copy of the application documents for your own reference.

To stop receiving payouts

Log in with Singpass on eFASS. Go to “Manage My Schemes” > “Change in Scheme Details.”

If you are unable to do any of the above online, email apply@aic.sg to obtain a copy of the application form or visit any AIC Link. We seek your understanding that hardcopy applications will require a longer approval waiting time.

12. Why do I need the NRIC issue date? How do I find it?

AIC needs the NRIC issue date for verification. You can find it on the back of your NRIC card.

13. I am residing overseas and unable to visit an MOH-accredited severe disability assessor in Singapore. Can I see my overseas doctor for the required assessment?

If you can, we encourage you to return to Singapore for your SDA. However, if it is not possible, you may see your overseas doctor to complete the assessment using the Overseas Severe Disability Assessment Form. Please email apply@aic.sg to obtain the form.

14. Where can I get more information about disability support and resources?

Visit SG Enable's Enabling Guide, an online resource for persons with disabilities and their caregivers, as well as professionals looking for disability support.
